

After Trillions Mysteriously Go 'Missing' DoD Getting Audited for First Time in History

After their own reports showed trillions of dollars "missing" from ledger, now getting its first audit in its entire history.

By Matt Agorist - December 10, 2017

Share on Facebook

Tweet on Twitter

tweet

"The Defense Department is starting the first agency-wide financial audit in its history," the Pentagon's news service said this week, announcing that they are finally going to follow through with something they promised to do for years.