

Are Some Middle Eastern Cultures Brainwashed, From Birth, To Be Tribal, Hateful, Closed, Cartel-Based Societies?

By Cheryl Green - Submission to Townhall

Maybe they can't see what they have become?

Maybe the echo-chamber that they surround themselves with has created an eternal state of denial?

Is it possible that some Middle Eastern States feel that "everyone hates them" but can't see that the way they run their "Tribal, Hateful, Closed, Cartel-Based society" and culture is the cause of that hate?

Here is what some about social brainwashing:

In a sense I'm not sure what society you're talking about specifically, but in my society, the United States, I think we've been being brainwashed for a long time, and still are. We've just never been encouraged to think critically about things. We're always told/taught what to think, rather than how to think, which I consider tantamount to brainwashing.

We're encouraged in schools to stand in reverence and pledge allegiance to the flag before we're even taught why we owe our allegiance to it in the first place. We're told by every president that the United States is "exceptional", without any mention of what it is that we excel at. We're taught early on in our schooling that certain drugs are bad (marijuana, LSD, psilocybin, etc.) but are not told why they are bad, and nary a word is said of the harms of socially acceptable drugs such as alcohol, tobacco, oxycotin, or even pharmaceutical drugs that are often used in excess for recreational purposes, like children's cough syrup. Even in the media, we're often presented with a biased view of events, and they are often put through an ideological filter, and rather than presenting only facts the opinions of the reporter are reported along with it.

I recognize that the above may sound dramatic because I'm calling it "brainwashing", but I concede that it is fairly mild brainwashing compared to what has gone on in the past or what still goes on in other parts of the world. But it's simply a fact that there is still some brainwashing that goes on in modern Western society, and it continues unchecked because we are all accustomed to it and it is so deeply fixed into our society that we never even notice it. But the fact that we do and believe things based on social conditioning rather than critical thought is a positive indication of brainwashing that still takes place in society.

Society has brainwashed us all, whether you see it or not. There is really nothing to say. Look around and notice how gullible we are as a society. The government is doing us wrong and we just sit and watch. We put expectations for others to hide our own insecurities. People use the internet nowadays to bash others. What is wrong with today? EVERYTHING

We are brainwashed far more than we know it The mental health system is a complete brainwash. All of the counseling theories teach you to sorta shelve or "manage" the PTSD and look down on it or even try your best to minimize it. Not only does this not work, but they fail to teach you that you can trust the PTSD since its a source of wisdom since it stores all the intense memories you went through. None of the theories teach you to trust this part of yourself. Not only do the theories do no teach it, but I have yet to hear or read anything that advocates trusting these turbulent emotions in my entire 56 years ie. Any literature or anything else. And that was the technique that I came up with that actually helped me heal more than anything else. Until then I was completely suicidal. I refused to do any of the drugs as numbing does not solve or cure anything.

Everyone is being brainwashed... Why do you believe what you believe?

How do you know what is true?

Do you blindly trust the government and what they tell you?

Do you believe the US military is "defending freedom" by deploying overseas for wars in the Middle East?

Do you think politicians care for the general public?

Do you think doctors and pharmaceutical companies think in our best interest or for profit maximization?

Do you think people who think or believe different things are bad or evil?

These are very simple yet critical questions and there are many more to ask.

Everything is a brainwash Ever since you have learned to be aware you have been brainwashed.

There way of teaching kids is not doing any good! If you do something wrong you get punished or shouted at. If you don't do well on a test you think your not good enough. But if you do what they say you get rewarded with things. The media today. Girls looking online at the perfect body they 'should have' and it's considered what you should look like and they are wondering why they dont. Teenagers will do anything to fit the lines so they feel accepted. Its ridiculous!

It's all about the money. Just a theory, when social media was created, it was made just for the sake of people's fun. Take YouTube as an example, if you check older videos like Leek Spin, you can see they were all mainly just a joke. Old YouTube was all about short videos, and short videos that were worth a laugh. But then later on, it all changed.

YouTube started to remove features. Then they added advertisements. Companies are starting to have YouTube channels, just to make ads for it. Sounds like YouTube is turning into a website where you just go, make videos, and earn money? Misleading people with astonishing-like titles when they're just a boring let's play? (clickbait) Just for the money? Since 2014 and on, YouTube turned from an underrated website where you uploaded random short videos just for the fun of it and because you were bored, to a website that's almost as populated as China, where the funniest YouTubers you watched in '08 turned into sellouts, misleading you, and treating you like a cash grab even if you have always admired them? Youtube is brainwashing us, with YouTube rewind every year, with the same YouTubers, and trying to make you think that they're good, funny, and nice, check them out, click on one of their videos, and find out that you just have been tricked and you have given at least a dollar to them.

We have all been rehired and are sheep. Music, YouTube, social media, and commercials are saying we need to be like this, we need to have that, tv promotes unreal beauty standards, music promotes violence and only being in relationships for sex, social media is used to show that it's ok to look at porn (like when you get a sexy pic) YouTube sometimes promotes violence or unreal beauty standards and porn and everyone's brain is basically Swiss cheese because they never learn anything so they are easily manipulated, diverted, and diverted . This is why the world is fucked up and violent it's all thanks to your stupid ass tasteless uncreative music, your disgusting urges getting the best of you, your stupid time wasting Instagram or whatever, and YouTube. It's hidden Propiganda. No one seems to change And only wise old people it seems who know how the world used to be don't get brainwashed, avoid it have you grandma tell you stories about how great it used to be because it's true.

Well how about the world is putting dirt in our brains. It's up to us to wash it. CLEANSE OUR BRAINS WITHOUT WASHING THEM!!! I hope you understand what I mean. There are many ways of teaching us yet Human's choose the worst way?
